This full day RCGP Conference aims to explore the current status of General Practice and explore ways of making GPs resilient, sustainable and fit for the future.

The Conference is open to GPs (members and non-members), Practice Nurses, Practice Managers, GP Trainees and ALL members of the Primary Care Team.

The programme will feature address by Keynote Speakers:

- ◆ Professor Amanda Howe, Professor of Primary Care, University of East Anglia
- ◆ Rt Hon Normal Lamb MP
- ◆ Professor Alys Burns, Professor of Medical Education, Norwich Medical School, UEA

There will also be a Debate during the programme.

Plus a variety of interactive workshops to choose from including:

- Following in the footsteps of Elizabeth Garrett Anderson—medical careers for women in the 21st century
- The GP Health Service
- 'Catch 'em young': pre-medical school work experience in primary care
- Top tips for a sustainable career
- Sustaining GPs overseas: international work in the Faculty
- Student and trainee perspectives on GP careers
- Mental health for all—prevention at work in the population and workforce
- Transitions / Resilience

The 54th James Dundas Simpson Lecture will be given by Dr Tony Palframan
